navAero Achieves Status as a Microsoft Certified Partner

navAero has met the rigorous competency levels, proficiencies and standards set by Microsoft and, on September 11, 2007, the company was awarded the distinction of achieving the status as a Microsoft Certified Partner.

The benefits to navAero of achieving this qualification are the many ways that the Microsoft organization can assist navAero in helping the organization to expand skill sets, to support customers more effectively and to build a solid strategy that will enable long-term growth and success.

As a manufacturer of Class 2 Electronic Flight Bag Systems for aviation, navAero's products are delivered to its customers with the Microsoft Windows XP operating system already installed. Now, as a Certified Partner, navAero has the unique opportunity to take advantage of the new market opportunities created by Microsoft's leading technologies that are backed by the industry's largest investments in research and development.

"The technical assistance we provide to our customers whose applications are running under the Windows operating system will now have even greater depth from navAero through the access to the resources of Microsoft." said Carin Ekstrom, Certification and Quality Manager at navAero. "navAero can now tap-into Microsoft's deep technical support to work through our customer's pre-sales or pre-installation issues as well as have access to knowledge which will help refine our technology strategies as well as to work with us in developing new and innovative solutions. These resources will be a great benefit to both our company...and our customers."
